

Suicide Risk Management Consultation Program Lecture Series

Targeting Suicidal Behavior in the Context of Moral Injury

Please register by August 10, 2021 (VA Registration and Non-VA Registration)

Overview

Program Description:

Exposure to morally injurious events is emerging as a risk factor for suicidal behavior.

During this month's lecture, Lauren Borges, PhD, will discuss how clinicians and health care teams can conceptualize and effectively target suicidal behavior in the context of moral injury.

Following this live, knowledge-based webinar, clinicians and health care teams will be able to:

- Describe a conceptual model of moral injury and suicide risk.
- Discuss Acceptance and Commitment Therapy for Moral Injury (ACT-MI) as an approach to targeting moral injury and suicidal behavior.
- Discuss the results of a case study where ACT-MI was applied to moral injury and suicidal behavior.
