

Postdoctoral Program Admissions

Date Program Tables are updated: 7-16-2020

Briefly describe in narrative form important information to assist potential applicants in assessing their likely fit with your program. This description must be consistent with the program's policies on intern selection and practicum and academic preparation requirements:

Fellows are selected based on merit to include the relative fit for the training program, suitability of prior experiences, and evidence of promise as a junior researcher. Selection of trainees is based on evidence of the applicant's clinical research competency, professional experience and interests, and fit within our Center's area of emphasis in primary care-mental health. Most competitive applicants have had strong generalist backgrounds and scientist-practitioner training, though applicants from other training paradigms are considered. Prior primary care-mental health experience is not required, but is viewed favorably. Similarly, applicants are not required to have a minimum number of publications, presentations, or grants, however these factors, as well as past experience working on research projects, feedback from references, and the scope and quality of prior training are each weighed in evaluating applicants' future research potential. Application materials must convey enough information to allow training faculty to evaluate applicants' accomplishments, interests, and fit with our program. In addition to review of transcripts and written materials, qualified candidates are invited to complete an interview with their potential mentor(s) in order to further discuss their training background and goals, and subsequently, to present a comprehensive job talk to our training faculty.

Describe any other required minimum criteria used to screen applicants:

Prospective applicants must be U.S. Citizens, and have completed doctoral degree requirements from an APA, CPA, or PCSAS-accredited program in clinical or counseling psychology, and an APA, CPA, or PCSAS-accredited pre-doctoral psychology internship.
