Basic Overview

• Military produces highly trained men and women.

• These individuals had HUGE responsibilities while deployed and return to no jobs or relatively trivial responsibilities in comparison.

• Service members are our family members, neighbors, friends, co-workers, patients. Thousands upon thousands have served in the military.

• All who have served come home changed. For a few individuals these changes can be debilitating and life-altering.

• This module explores positive ways Clergy and Faith Groups can respond to the challenges post-deployment
Challenges in Returning Home

Returning home is disorienting and can represent a significant change of and perhaps an absence of social community, structure, order, mission, purpose and predictability for the returning service member.

The enormity of the war experience can shatter the individual’s basic sense of safety and basic understanding of the meaning of life as they knew it.

In addition, the returning soldier’s family are not the same as they were before deployment to war.

Re-adjustment and “re-setting” after the crisis of trauma can be complicated and difficult.
A typical crisis has a beginning where stress builds, a high point of stress and then a slow tapering of anxiety and fear that leads to recovery.

Typical Resting Point for those unaffected by trauma

Over time, anxiety typically builds then dissipates
Typical Resting Point for those affected by trauma is much closer to Crisis Mode at ALL Times.

Individuals who have been affected by trauma are often at a constant high state of readiness.

Hyper vigilance
Crisis Cycle After Multiple Deployments

Over time, resources for managing crisis are eroded. Crisis comes earlier.
Re-setting for Civilian Life

Upon returning from war, individuals must “re-set” themselves for civilian life.

Re-setting includes:

- Grief and transition processing,
- Un-learning (or re-learning) basic skills such as defensive driving rather than offensive driving
- Re-developing community support systems

Trauma Definitions

Trauma: Injury whether emotionally or physically inflicted. An experience that is emotionally painful, distressful or shocking and which may result in lasting mental and physical effects.

Psychiatric trauma is essentially a normal response to an extreme event.

Trauma reactions upon returning from war are NORMAL reactions to the abnormal circumstances of war.
Definition - PTSD

Post-traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) is an anxiety disorder that can develop after exposure to one or more terrifying events that threatened or caused grave physical harm (to self or other).

This is a specific psychiatric disorder in which a cluster of symptoms occurs beyond one month after someone experiences a traumatic event.

Non-mental health care providers (pastors included) should never assume this medical diagnosis or proffer it to individuals as stigmatization, distancing and inappropriate over-identification can occur.
Psychological Reactions to Trauma

- Traumatic events are often re-experienced.
- Recurrent and intrusive distressing recollections of the event, including images, thoughts, or perceptions.
- Recurrent distressing dreams of the event.
- Acting or feeling as if the traumatic event were recurring.
- Intense psychological distress at exposure to internal or external cues that symbolize or resemble an aspect of the traumatic event.

• Physiological reactivity on exposure to internal or external cues that symbolize or resemble an aspect of the traumatic event

• Hyper-vigilance, jumpiness, an extreme sense of being "on guard" overreactions, including sudden unprovoked anger

• General anxiety

• Insomnia

• Obsessions with death
Physical Reactions to Trauma

1. Eating disturbances (more or less than usual)
2. Sleep disturbances (more or less than usual)
3. Sexual dysfunction
4. Low energy
5. Chronic, unexplained pain

Traumatic Brain Injury is a physical injury to the brain. TBI complicates post-traumatic stress recovery.

Poly-trauma refers to a combination of physical and brain injuries typically requiring extensive care.
Cognitive Reactions to Trauma

1. Memory lapses, especially about the trauma
2. Difficulty making decisions
3. Decreased ability to concentrate
4. Feeling distracted

Remember: The human brain is a social brain.

Psychosocial deprivation causes physical injury to the brain. A person with a brain injury living in social isolation has two brain injuries:

- the original brain injury and
- the injury of psychosocial deprivation.

78% of survivors receive 100% of their support from family members.
Emotional Reactions to Trauma

1. Depression, spontaneous crying, despair and hopelessness
2. Anxiety
3. Panic attacks
4. Fearfulness
5. Compulsive and obsessive behaviors
6. Feeling out of control
7. Irritability, angry and resentment
8. Withdrawal from normal routine and relationships
9. Emotional numbness
Emotional Reactions (cont.)

10. Avoidance of situations that resemble the initial event
11. Detachment
12. Amnesia
13. Altered sense of time
14. Depression
15. Feelings of guilt and shame
16. Grief reactions
Behavioral Reactions to Trauma

1. Substance abuse
2. Self-destructive and impulsive behavior
3. Uncontrollable reactive thoughts
4. Inability to make healthy lifestyle choices
5. Dissociative symptoms ("splitting off" parts of self)
6. Discarding previously sustained beliefs
7. Compulsive behavior patterns
Trauma’s Effect on Interpersonal Life

1. Inability to maintain close relationships or choose appropriate friends and mates
2. Sexual problems
3. Hostility – Impatience with the “stupid stuff”
4. Arguments with family members, employers or co-workers
5. Social withdrawal
6. Feeling constantly threatened by others
7. Avoidance leads to closing of communication with others.
Spiritual Reactions to Trauma

1. Confusion about God
2. Altered sense of meaning in/of life
3. Loss of previously sustained beliefs
4. Confusion about core ethical beliefs.
5. Grief around loss of relationship with God
6. Questions of Theodicy
7. Feeling dirty and unworthy
8. Feeling permanently damaged
9. Feelings of guilt
10. Loss of community / communication
Spiritual Consequence of War

Difficulty reconciling beliefs with traumatic warzone events

- Agree
- Neutral
- Disagree

I abandoned my religious faith during the war.

- Agree

Spirituality & Rebuilding Life

- Spirituality is that which gives a person meaning and purpose.

- It is found in relationships with self, others, ideas, nature, and, possibly, a higher power.

- These many relationships are prioritized according to an organizing principle and form an intra-, inter-, and trans-relational web that houses a person's sense of meaning and purpose.

- Spiritual distress arises when one of these relationships that provide meaning is threatened or broken. The more significant a particular relationship is, the greater the severity of spiritual distress if that relationship is threatened or broken.

- Spiritual wholeness is restored when that which threatens or breaks the patient's relational web of meaning is removed, transformed, integrated, or transcended.

Mark LaRocca-Pitts, Ph.D.
Veteran’s Use of Clergy

- Veterans feel more comfortable approaching their pastor than they do a mental health professional.

- Research shows that 4 of 10 individuals with mental health challenges seek counseling from clergy.

- Individuals seek council from ministers more than all other mental health providers combined.

- Often seeing a member of the clergy is less threatening and has less stigma attached. Is viewed as engaging a known community resource.

- Negative reasons. . . Magical thinking, avoiding truth of diagnosis, etc.
Pastor as a Safe Haven

- Offer a calm, safe and non-judgmental, non-anxious presence.
- Provide clear, reliable boundaries of communion and respect.
- Be present with veterans and families during the storms of reintegration.
- Provide a compassionate space wide enough to encompass the awfulness of war trauma.
Pastor as Listener

- Avoid advising or offering platitudes
- Listen without interruption or comment
- Hearing content and emotion with respect
- Convey warmth and acceptance of the person, their journey and their struggles
- Avoid asking questions
- Notice what is in a caring and genuine way.
Pastor’s Role in Grounding

• Provide roadmap for reintegration into church and community at large.

• Provide roadmap of opportunities for appropriate outlets regarding frustration, pain, fear, guilt and trauma.

• Provide avenues of dialogue for spiritual and religious growth and engagement.

• Provide honest, realistic reflection of recovery process.

• Provide spiritual, religious and community resources for veterans and their families.
Pastor’s Role in Accepting

- Understand the “both/and” nature of good and evil. Then and now.
- Not trying to fix the unfixable.
- To offer deep reflection on “what is goodness” and how to help others find “goodness” within themselves.
- Understanding and accepting the dark side of human nature.
Pastor’s Role in Referring

- A Pastor’s referral can validate, even de-stigmatize the use of mental health services
- Pastor can bring people in need to those who know how to assist best
- Rules for referral:
  - Refer early and often
  - Provide initial pastoral care at first . . . then
  - Assist with referral calls with and for them.
What NOT to do as a Pastor

- Ask if they killed anyone
- Push for details regarding the deployment
- Try to fix problems
- Assume the service member is “unsaved” or does not have a faith journey of their own
- Push to get service member involved in church ministries
- Prematurely assuage feelings of guilt
- Diagnose PTSD, assume PTSD or label PTSD
The Pastor’s Gift

Theological Reflection: Discovering the presence of God in one’s experience.

Engaging spiritual resources to re-frame one’s understanding of what’s happening.
Methods of Theological Reflection

Various methods of thinking theologically about what your service member is going through can help you reframe that person’s experience and connection with God.

Theological Reflection Resources Include:

The Pastor’s Challenge

- Actualizing Hope and Resilience
- Providing an honest, caring relationship
- Truthful imagination of the future
- Resource review – what was lost - what was gained?
- Acceptance of humanity
- Moving toward pardon (self and other)
- Inspiring collaboration & community
Facets of Resilience

- Resilience helps us cope with hardship (endures, minimizes or overcomes hardships);
- It helps us resist the destructive pressures on our physiological, psychological and spiritual self (maintains capacity);
- Resilience moves us to achieve a new proficiency out of the unfavorable experience (we learn something from the experience).

True Hope

- Hope is not initiated and sustained by erasing emotions like fear and anxiety, it integrates the genuine threats and dangers that exist into the proposed strategies to subsume them.

- Hope takes into account the real threats that exist and seeks to navigate the best path around them.

- Hope brings reality into sharp focus. Hope incorporates fear into the process of rational deliberation and tempers it so we can think and choose without panic.

Groopman, Jerome The Anatomy of Hope
Need for a Community Response

- No one system can provide all the services needed.
- Supporting the family will support the individual.
- 78% of survivors receive 100% of their support from family members.
- Survivors and caregivers needs are different.
Community-based Support Teams

A community-based support team is –

- a group of volunteers
- organized to provide practical, emotional & spiritual support

Team Philosophy

- Do what you can, when you can
- In a coordinated way
- With a built-in support system
Value of Teams for Veteran

- Hope
- Decreased isolation
- Increased quality of life
- Decreased stigmatization
- Early intervention
- Adherence to treatment regimen
- Peer-to-Peer support
Value for Team Members

- Altruistic experiences
- Decreased social isolation
- Increased awareness of problems experienced
- Gratitude
- Mission and Purpose
Concentric Circles of Care

Support at any level ripples back to veteran and throughout the community.
Support Team Philosophy

- Do what you can, when you can
- In a coordinated way
- With a built-in support system
Value of Support Systems to Communities

- Members support one another by
  - setting personal and team boundaries,
  - sharing the care,
  - inviting new persons to join the team.

- The support system encourages
  - mutual, respectful relationships
  - appropriate educational and emotional support
Faith-based Community Best Practices

- Providing childcare at all functions.
- Providing support during holidays and special occasions.
- Adopting a Veteran, Service Member and/or their family.
- Providing ministry outlets that are congruent with this population.
- Staying connected with and serving as a pastoral resource during and after deployment.
