ADVANCED POSTDOCTORAL FELLOWSHIP
IN VETERAN MENTAL HEALTH AND SUICIDE PREVENTION

The Center of Excellence for Suicide Prevention’s two-year fellowship program is designed to provide psychologists and physicians with the experience necessary to become leaders and innovators in suicide prevention research among Veterans. Consistent with the strategic mission of our Center, our fellowship program puts primary emphasis on public health approaches to suicide prevention in a vibrant interdisciplinary setting that fosters rich and creative collaborations.

Our Research

Fellows collaborate with investigators and clinical supervisors from the fields of psychology, psychiatry, medicine, nursing, social work, epidemiology and health services.

Meet some of the investigators currently accepting fellows for the 2023-25 program!

Nicholas Allan, PhD
targets brief interventions addressing risk factors for mood, anxiety, substance use and suicide-related outcomes.

Tracy Stecker, PhD
aims to increase help-seeking behavior and mental health treatment engagement.

Peter Britton, PhD
studies risk mitigation among Veterans who are hospitalized or call the Veterans Crisis Line.

Craig Bryan, PsyD
develops and tests upstream suicide prevention strategies among Veterans to enhance screening, assessment and prevention.

Elizabeth Karras-Pilato, PhD studies the use of communication strategies in public health approaches among at-risk Veterans.

Lisham Ashrafioun, PhD conducts overlapping research on chronic pain management and substance use, particularly opioid misuse and mitigation.

Program Eligibility

Prospective PhD applicants must have completed a doctoral degree program in clinical or counseling psychology, as well as a doctoral internship in psychology.

Prospective MD or DO applicants must have completed a residency and be board certified or board eligible in their medical specialty.

Applications due January 3, 2023 and can be found on the CoE website.

The VA Center of Excellence for Suicide Prevention and the affiliated University of Rochester Center for the Study and Prevention of Suicide (UR-CS) is pleased to announce the availability of a postdoctoral fellowship position for a psychologist or physician. The two-year program is supported by the VA Advanced Fellowship Program in Mental Illness Research and Treatment.

Program Goal: To prepare the next generation of leaders and innovators in suicide prevention research, education, and clinical care. We offer special- ized training focused on suicide prevention strategies, with emphasis on at-risk populations including older Veterans; Veterans with depression, PTSD, or other mental health disorders; Veterans with substance use disorders and comorbid conditions; and Veterans facing health challenges such as chronic pain and sleep disorders. We also offer unique clinical and research opportunities in crisis response strategies and other brief interventions to address suicide risk. The fellowship is associated with (but not identical to) the UR-CS NIMH T32 Research Fellowship in Suicide Prevention.
Prospective fellows may apply to both fellowships.

Fellowship Activities: Participants spend approximately 75% time in research and 25% in related clinical activities, work closely with senior research and education mentors, participate in core didactic offerings of the VA Hub Site and UR-CS, obtain advanced clinical training in VA sites matched closely to research interests, prepare at least one paper for publication and one national presentation each year, and complete a suicide prevention education project.

Application: Send letter of interest, CV, graduate transcripts, and 3 letters of recommendation (one letter must be from the Director of Training of your APA-accredited doctoral internship) to:
