Managing Your Feelings: Reducing Your Emotional Vulnerability
Session 3 Handout

BODY CHANNEL

• Improve your self-care
  - Meeting your basic needs (hunger, thirst, rest, illness, discomfort/pain, hygiene, and exercise) can influence your mood.
  - Routine care of your body. Treat your body well with a good diet, adequate sleep, regular exercise, and other healthy behaviors.

• Improve your physical environment to make yourself feel comfortable. When possible, notice your response to temperature, clothing, colors/textures, sounds/noise, and clutter. Small changes in your surroundings can increase serenity and positive emotions.

THOUGHT CHANNEL

• Increase your awareness of positive emotions and positive self-talk because they help us to:
  - Feel good.
  - Reduce our distress.
  - Identify our values/goals and motivate us to use positive behaviors.
  - Connect to others.

• Focus your attention on positive events that happen over the course of your day.

BEHAVIOR CHANNEL

• Practice what you are good at. Regularly do activities or practice skills that you feel you are good at. Write 1-3 things you are good at: _________________________________

• Regularly spend time or stay in touch with others.
  - Often we when we feel bad, we isolate and then feel overwhelmed and/or lonely.
  - Identify activities which will help to expand your social support group. Join groups or attend meetings with like-minded people.
o Even small interactions can boost your mood. Going to public places, even for coffee or the library, can help us feel less alone.

o Call/text/email/visit a supportive friend, family member, or sponsor o Write the names of 1-3 people you like to spend time with or places where you feel less alone: ________________________________________________________

• Practice communicating your feelings. Express in a respectful way how you are feeling so you do not stuff feelings inside. This helps you connect with others.

• Increase Your Meaningful and Pleasurable Activities.

o Routinely engage in meaningful and pleasant activities to increase your enjoyment.

o When distressed, use pleasant activities to improve your mood.
